DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Henry et al, Patent No. 5,564,010, in view of IBM TDB, "Electronic Circuit Protector-Circuit Breaker".

As to claim 23, Henry et al teach in a microcontroller (an electronic system, col. 2 lines 17-19) having a power supply fed by a pump (col. 2 lines 19-34), performing power stability functions (col. 3 lines 39-44 and col. 6 lines 12-22) utilizing a power on reset circuit (figure 1, items 10 and 20) during startup and post-startup operations (col. 2 lines 17-51), performing a power on reset function during startup, and utilizing the power on reset circuit, during post-startup operation to perform power on reset functions upon trip, monitor a condition of the power supply, control the pump, and provide auxiliary control, indication, and memory protection trip (col. 7 lines 4-15 and col. 8 lines 30-39).

However, Henry et al do not expressly teach the pump being a switch mode pump. The IBM TDB describes a switch mode pump for a switch mode power supply (pages 1 and 2).

It would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to combine the teachings of Henry et al and the IBM TDB since both are commonly directed to the electronic circuits protection, and utilizing the switch mode pump of IBM TDB into Henry et al, would have enabled increased flexibility by allowing the power on reset capability for regulated or switch mode pump systems.

Claims 1-22 are directed to the system implementing the method of claim 23. Henry et al and IBM TDB, in combination, teach the method as set forth in claim 23. Therefore, Henry et al and IBM TDB, also in combination, teach the system as set forth in claims 1-22.
